MEETINGS

There were held some on-line meetings along the year for coordination between members.

- 8th January
- 20th May
- 25th July
- 15th October
- 19th December

GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Iter Romanum held its General Assembly at the end of April (29th) in Paris. During the meeting, the 2024 accounts were approved and progress was made in coordinating the 2025 work plan, reaffirming the association's commitment to strengthening and expanding the cultural outreach of the network.

In addition, contacts were established with representatives and collaborators of a potential new partner, the Via Domitia, the first Roman road built in Gaul, located in the south of France.

This initial exchange opens up new opportunities for collaboration aimed at broadening the project's territorial and historical scope.

OBJECT OF THE SEASON ARTICLES

In 2025, three “Object of the Season” articles have been published.

In the first quarter, the article was dedicated to the mansiones and mutationes.

At the end of June, a second article was published. This time, it was dedicated to the “Itineraries.” The itinerarium was a Roman document that listed routes, stopping points, and distances between places along the roads.

The final edition of the year was dedicated, on this occasion, to Roman mosaics.

Object of the Season

What are mansiones and mutationes?

Why they were so important for roman travellers that their names from the ancient itineraries are preserved to the day?

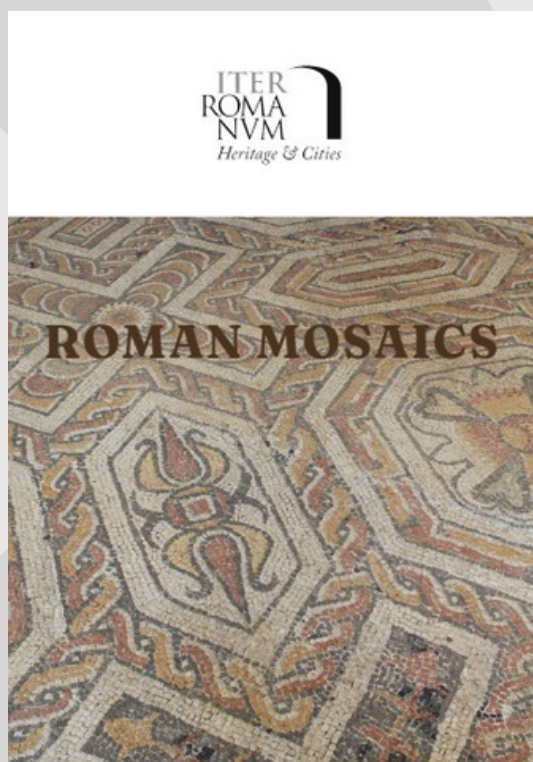

If you were planning to travel in the ancient Roman times, you would realize that the locations of mansiones (mansiones) and mutationes (mutationes) were very important data and that you should be familiar with them.

On the other hand, mutationes were service stations also associated with road networks, specifically intended to provide food for horses and assistance to carriages.

Mansios were facilities promoted by the Roman State, serving as inns to meet the needs for rest and provisioning of travellers of the vias. They were distributed in a planned manner at approximately regular intervals along the roads, ensuring service throughout the road network.

ITINERARIUM

THE TERM "ITINERARIUM" (PLURAL: ITINERARIA) COMES FROM LATIN AND, IN A HISTORICAL CONTEXT, REFERS TO A ROUTE MAP, PARTICULARLY USED IN ROMAN TIMES.

It was essentially a document that listed places (towns, stations, other stops, and landmarks) along Roman roads, often with distances marked between them. It served as a practical travel guide for officials, merchants, and military officers, as well as for pilgrims undertaking religious journeys in Late Antiquity. Unlike modern maps, itineraria were not geographic representations but rather textual or tabular lists—more like a turn-by-turn log than a map. They were often inscribed or written on scrolls and later copied into codices.

In medieval Christian literature, the term could also refer to a pilgrim's travelogue or diary, often describing visits to holy cities. In modern times, the word "itinerarium" refers to a travel itinerary—a detailed plan of a journey, including dates, destinations, and activities.

Three important historical examples of itineraria are:

1. Itinerarium Antonini (Antonine Itinerary)
2. Tabula Peutingeriana (Peutinger Table)
3. Itinerarium Burdigalense (Bordeaux Itinerary)

We will use the first and second Itineraria as examples to explain the ancient road structure of the Ruta Via de la Plata in modern Spain and the main Roman routes in the Srem region of Serbia. The third itinerary was illustrated in a previous "Object of the Season" to describe the functions of mansiones and mutationes along the road.

EUROPEAN ARCHAEOLOGY DAYS

During the month of June, within the framework of the Iter Romanum project, we took part in the European Archaeology Days, an initiative promoted since 2010 by the French Ministry of Culture and held at the European level since 2019, currently with the participation of 32 countries. From June 13 to 15, these events were held in Alésia, Ruta Vía de la Plata, and Aquileia, where activities were organized for all audiences.

PROMOTIONAL LEAFLET

The Network's new presentation brochure has been designed to centralize information regarding the itinerary's thematic focus and current membership. The resource includes a dedicated section outlining the accession process for new members. This material has been produced in a dual format (print and digital) to serve as a formal introduction for potential collaborating entities and strategic partners.

Roman Amphitheatre of Itálica, Seville, Ruta Vía de la Plata.

OBJECTIVES

1. Publicize and promote Roman culture and heritage.
2. Coordinate those cultural and tourism activities that take place in the areas where Roman roads and sites are found in terms of sustainable development.
3. Promote relations with the Council of Europe and European institutions.
4. Promote and launch educational activities about the Roman roads and sites belonging to the route which are aimed at young people in order to strengthen their knowledge of their roots and consolidate European identity.
5. Promote connections with cultural and creative industries.

The ultimate goal of this project is to constitute a large network of sites to jointly organize cultural activity and tourism through their communication routes and Roman heritage.

PARTNERS

Currently the entities that are part of the Network are the following:

The Cooperation Network of Towns on the Ruta de la Plata (Spain)	The Fondazione Aquileia (Italy)
The Institute for the Protection of Cultural Monuments of Sremska Mitrovica (Serbia)	The Municipal Museum of Vinkovci (Croatia)

All ITER Romanum members share common origins related to Roman Roads. The Cooperation Network of the Heritage of Roman Roads, Iter Romanum, is open to new partnerships, in addition to those currently entitled to full membership.

The requirements can be found on the association's website:
www.iter-romanum.eu

Applicants must present a document which includes information about the Roman road or roads that reached the site, about the Roman remains that are to be valued, their location, bibliography, the activities and scientific publications from the last 3 years related to their Roman heritage, as well as the relationship between the related cultural and tourist offer and the activities aimed at youth groups.

It must be clearly stated in the document what exactly the new candidate's contribution to the network will be in terms of Roman heritage.

This document will be evaluated by the Scientific Committee, who will then send a report to the Board of Directors for validation before being presented to the General Assembly.

CREATIVE EUROPE PROJECT

Project Development and 2025 Call for Proposals

Design work began in late 2024 for a European programme aimed at the 2025 Call for Proposals. The initiative was built upon the following core pillars:

- Safeguarding, developing, and promoting European cultural and linguistic diversity and heritage.
- Enhancing the competitiveness and economic potential of the cultural and creative sectors.

The submission, titled "Roman Interrail Experience: A new digital interactive concept to re-discover the EU's shared Roman heritage," was led by the Municipality of Braga. The consortium also included Fondazione Aquileia, Zavod Za Zastitu Somenika Kulture Sremska Mitrovica, and Ruta Vía de la Plata.

Results and Outlook

The project was officially approved, achieving a high score of 84 points—well above the qualifying threshold of 70. However, due to the exceptional volume of high-quality proposals and budget constraints for this cycle, funding was not granted in this instance.

Given the project's strong evaluation, the partnership has committed to resubmitting the proposal in the next call.

CHRISTMAS CAMPAIGN

A Christmas card was designed and created. It was then sent to stakeholders in the association. It was also published on the website and in the Iter Romanum social networks.
